DR. C. H. BAILEY A 'WRETCH'

Declares Letter on Lusitania Note
Was a Jumble of False Statements.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—(Reuter.)—Breckenridge's denial of statements attributed to him that President Wilson had tried to add a postscript to his famous "strict accountability" note to Germany, Henry Breckenridge, former Assistant Secretary of War, has wired a local newspaper as follows:

"I have just sent the following telegram to Dr. Charles H. Bailey: 'Your letter to Grafton Cushing is a jumble of false statements and you are an unconscionable wretch for uttering it.'"

RECOVERY OF
NEW JERSEY WOMAN

Due To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bridgeton, N. J.—"I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for inflammation and other weakness. I was very irregular and would have terrible pains so that I could hardly take a step. Sometimes I would be so miserable that I could not sweep a room. I doctored part of the time, but felt no change. I later took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and felt a change for the better after the second day. I took it until I was in a good, healthy condition. I recommend the Pinkham remedies to all women, as I have used them with good results."—Mrs. Milford T. Cummings, 24 New Street, Bridgeton, N. J.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence of the excellence of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the distressing ills of women, such as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, backache, painful periods, nervousness and kindred ailments.—Advt.

Housewives' Protective Association to Bring Out
The Big Profits in Milk

Figures Proving How Much the Trust Makes Out of the Housekeeper Ruled Out by the Referee Thus Far—Women's Organizations Take Great Interest in The Evening World's Movement.

By Sophie Irene Loch.

Every housewife interested in her household is invited to join the Housewives' Protective Association.

Hundreds of women are signing applications and asking for copies of protection to carry in their purses during their daily shopping for the home.

The one big work at present before the association is the study of the milk situation. Deputy Attorney-General Lewis, who is conducting the investigation, will return next Thursday to continue the inquiry. Mr. Lewis is putting forth every effort to have presented all the pertinent matters concerning the cost of milk to the consumer.

But Referee Dyckman is anxious to "get along" with the investigation and "get through." He stated that he would be very busy all of November and "really cannot give much more time" to the investigation.

He has already ruled out questions pertaining to pasteurization, capitalization of the companies, profits of milk corporations, and has decided that these matters have nothing to do with the milk investigation. He only wants testimony as to whether there is a "combination" in the trade.

Thus it remains to be seen if the actual profits of the companies can be shown in this investigation for the consumer's benefit.

In direct contrast to this milk inquiry is that of 1909-1910.

Some significant facts were developed at that time. One of these was that in spite of the large profits of milk companies, some of which reached 80 per cent., the price of milk was gradually raised.

For example some of the testimony disclosed was as follows:

"Dec. 10, Alexander Campbell, the Brooklyn milk dealer, testified before Referee Brown that at eight cents a quart bottle his company was not making money, but actually running at a loss. Though the company paid 8 per cent. dividends on its $500,000 of stock in 1908, Campbell swore he had to borrow $40,000 to enable the company to keep on doing business, and if he hadn't raised the price to nine cents his company 'could not have paid its bills this year.'"

"Dec. 13, Special Deputy Attorney-General Coleman confronted Campbell with an official statement of the business of the company for the last three years. The statement showed that in 1907 the company cleared $13,220 net profits; in 1908 its net profits had increased to $42,839; in the first six months of 1909 the net profits of the Alexander Campbell Milk Company were $49,880, indicating a probable net profit for the year of $59,760 on a capitalization of $500,000." Asked how he reconciled these figures with his testimony, Campbell said he had no explanation to make.

Statistics as to the cost of milk were shown in that investigation and Mr. Lewis will endeavor to get the similar facts he has ascertained into the record.

WOMEN SEND CHEERING WORDS TO ASSOCIATION.

Among the interesting letters received by the Housewives' Protective Association are the following:

"6515 Third Avenue, Brooklyn.

"Housewives' League, New York City.

"I am sending you my application for membership and stamp for pin. I believe your organization is our only hope for better times. I wish you could get in touch with the farmers and buy directly from them, establishing stations where their produce could be sold at a reasonable profit to all concerned.

"I would like to suggest one way in which I think the milkmen could save money—that is, by taking care of their bottles. Where there is a regular delivery there is not so much waste, but bottles sold in stores are seldom returned. I have the care of a flat and I know.

"I have asked the stores to call for the bottles I collected from the halls and cellars and they refused, saying it was not their business to collect bottles. One merchant to whom I carried bottles said he was sorry. He knew the loss was great, but he could not follow up all the bottles. When asked why he did not charge for the bottle, to be paid on its return, he said he would gladly do so if the other fellows would, but if he tried it alone the customers would all go where they did not have to bother with the bottles.

"I have been told that bottles thrown away in rubbish or ashcans are carried to the dumps and there collected and sold back to the milkmen. I hope that is not true, as I have to use bottled milk. Whether it is or not, the loss is great—how great any one can decide by watching any store where bottled milk is sold and seeing how many bottles are sold yesterday's bottles. Yours for better times, "MRS. HEANEY."

ROFRANO DECLARES
HE WAS 'FRAMED' BY FOLEY IN REVENGE

former Sheriff of this county, framed you up for the murder of Gaimari?

A. Yes.

Q. Why should he frame you up? A. Revenge.

Q. Revenge for what? A. Because I hurt his vote in 1912 and 1913.

Q. How much did you hurt Foley's vote in 1913? A. A couple of thousand votes.

Q. Mr. Brothers showed to Rofrano the official returns for Gaimari's district in the Mitchell-McCall election. They showed a total of 294, with 196 for Mitchell and 198 for McCall. Rofrano said last week Mitchell carried the district by 228 to 180, and Gaimari was therefore not a formidable antagonist. The returns for other candidates showed the Rofrano Independence League, Republican tickets were beaten in the Gaimari district.

Q. You say five or six months after that election you lost your interest in politics and withdrew? A. Yes.

Q. Why did you retire? A. Yes. They were firing at me from all sides for jobs.

Q. You never minded that in all the years before? A. It was part of my work.

Q. When you put Tom Foley out of the club house and set up your own club there, didn't you take the check which represented the transaction and frame it and put it on the club wall? A. I certainly did.

Q. You went to the Journal office, the night of the 1913 election. Who was there? A. Gene Driscoll, Clem Driscoll, Mr. James Montague, Mr. O'Reilly, Mrs. Hearst's secretary, Mr. Allen, chairman of the Independence League County Committee and others.

Q. Was Bob Scallon there? A. I don't remember.

Q. How well do you know Scallon? A. Slightly.

Q. Didn't you know him at Sayville, Long Island? A. I don't remember.

Q. Wasn't Gene Driscoll throwing beer bottles out of the Home Rule Club that election night? A. First I heard of it.

Q. Didn't the police raid the club that day? A. Not that I know.

Q. Were there no weapons in the club house? A. There were none.

Q. Didn't you have one yourself and show it to a newspaper man? A. Not every time.

Q. Did you read The Evening World that day or the next? A. Don't remember.

Q. Didn't you tell a reporter you were carrying a gun and had a permit for it? A. Don't remember talking to a newspaper man.

DENIES THERE WERE RIFLES IN HIS CLUB HOUSE.

Q. Were there rifles in the club? A. No.

Q. Sawed-off shotguns? A. No.

Q. Brothers read an interview with Rofrano in The Evening World Nov. 4, 1913, in which Rofrano was quoted as threatening "Providence" Flynn, a Foley partisan, with shooting if Flynn raised a hand about the district.

Q. Was Gene Driscoll drunk that election day? A. Not that I know.

Q. Rofrano said he knew District Attorney Perkins, several Judges, assistants in the District Attorney's office, the Mayor and many prominent officials. He denied boasting he could "reach Judge Rosalsky" to get a light sentence for a friend. The witness said he frequently lunched with the Mayor's secretary, knew Borough President Connolly, many Assemblymen and State Senators.

Q. You said you ran away and stayed away because you could not—in spite of all your friendships and influence with officials and prominent citizens—get a fair trial? A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever know Mr. Perkins to do an unfair thing? A. Once when I was a Grand Juror—but I don't want to go into that.

Q. You said an Englishman, while you were in hiding, brought you information about Montemagno's confession in Sing Sing? A. Yes.

Q. Was he Bob Scallon? A. No.

Q. When was that? A. I decline to say for the same reason that I refused last week. I don't want to involve other persons.

Q. Did you try to reach Joe La

Salle and Tony La Salle in Sing Sing? A. No.

Q. Have you ever said your lawyer E. A. G. Wyle (Mr. Littleton's associate) could get anything he wanted in Sing Sing because he was a classmate of Spencer Miller, then assistant warden of the county jail?

Q. Rofrano said Gov. Whitman offered to appoint him State Superintendent of Elections in 1914 and he declined. He denied he substituted Mr. Littleton for Emory R. Backner, for political reasons, after Mr. Swann was elected District Attorney.

Q. "You don't mean to charge me with being a Tammany man, do you?" sneered Mr. Littleton, who the jury laughed. Mr. Wyle took occasion to remark that as he himself was a Yale man and as Spencer Miller was a Cornell graduate, he couldn't remember their old college days very well.

INSISTS HE WENT AWAY FOR FEAR OF UNFAIR TRIAL.

The accused man insisted he fled the country because he feared an unfair trial and remained away eight months in the hope the harrassing question of the La Salle brothers and the prosecutor would fall through well.

Q. Don't you know James Knox? A. Yes.

Q. Didn't you go with him to Coney Island in an automobile once? A. Yes.

Q. And didn't you get out of the car at Fourteenth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street, within 100 feet of Brondini's home? A. I don't know where the Brondini house was. Never knew it.

Q. You didn't get out and go into the house on the corner? A. No. I did not.

Q. Weren't there any children about? A. Not that I remember. Where?

Q. Ah, Fourteenth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street? A. No. I never stopped at that corner.

Q. And when you got out no children got into the car? A. No.

Q. And you didn't go on to the Buena Vista Inn and talk about old times and the Drovers, and how you made your money? A. No.

Q. Have you given any money to Mary, the Brondini sister? A. No.

Q. Did she ever come to you to bring a message for help from Gastano Montemagno's sister? A. No.

Q. Have you sent messages to John Brondini? A. No.

Q. Do you know Louis Poggi? A. By reputation.

SAYS HE WANTED TO "SHOW UP" GAIMARI'S WIDOW.

Q. He has an awful reputation, hasn't he? A. In the newspapers.

Q. Hasn't he been charged with assault, battery, murder and petty larceny, everything? A. Yes, charged with a lot of things.

Q. And you have sent him to Brondini? A. No.

Q. In your conference with the District Attorney's office, practically every time you came to ask for something from the office you got what you wanted? A. Not every time. And I don't come so very often.

Q. You say you never had a quarrel with Mike Gaimari or any member of his family? A. I said that.

Q. You never had any hostility toward them? A. No.

Q. Then why do you ask your lawyer to cross question her widow as to whether she was really married to him? A. Because I wanted the woman known for what she was.

Q. Oh, you wanted to injure that woman? A. I wanted her known for what she was. She came around to my house and abused my wife to my children and acted as no lady should and I wanted to show her up. Any man would.

Q. You did it out of hatred for Mike Gaimari? A. No, he was dead. I was angry with her.

Q. As a matter of fact you hated every drop of blood in Mike Gaimari's body, didn't you? A. No.

Q. You sought his death for months? A. No.

Q. You were at the Brondini's house with Montemagno? (The witness raised his voice, waved his arms and fairly shouted his answer.) A. I was not. I was never there. I never knew where the house was except by hearsay. I don't believe Jimmy Knox ever said so. I don't believe it.

Q. Did you ever have any business dealings with President Maurice Connolly of Queens? A. No.

Q. No contracting business. A. No.

Q. Have you had any business relations with the Driscolls? A. Yes; with Eugene, in the real estate business. We are still partners.

HER BABY BACK WELL

Youngster Seized by Health Board and Held for 58 Days Shows
No Evidence of Paralysis.

Mrs. Anton Anderson of No. 180 New York Avenue, Jamaica, who made an unsuccessful fight in the Supreme Court against the forcible removal of her nineteen months' old son to the Queensboro Hospital, has him back again. The Health Department said the boy had infantile paralysis; Mrs. Anderson and several private physicians said he had not. The child, who was returned to his home yesterday, shows no signs of having had poliomyelitis. His mother says he seems in good condition, except that he is not as bright as he was when the health authorities took him. He was kept in the hospital fifty-eight days.
